

Dear Parents of Lori:

Fear was what motivated me. I list my ~~the~~ pattern of fear on the back of this paper.

The automatic part of my fears was stronger than my desire to escape, until you gave me a way out. Thank you.

In fear, I had hoped someone would have seen the truth, and released me from the game. Perhaps no one could, because fear blinds people.

All I can ask for now is understanding. Because of my fears, you are the only ones that can let me know it is safe.

No fear please,

Michael Luke

(P.S.: the letters & call. were part of the fear, the nightmare I lived)
